

Formulating Research Questions

Due on Wednesday, January 8 at 4:30pm

For homework, make any further adjustments to your two research questions that seem appropriate after hearing your partner's interpretation of your research. You can adopt their language if you feel they have done a particularly good job of wording your questions so it can be understood by those outside your field of study.

Bring your edited (1) statistical modeling research question and (2) mechanistic modeling research question to tomorrow's small group session, 'Refining research questions for modeling', at 4:30pm
